

A PEAKFUL PANIC
Crashed to Death in Mad Rush from a Glass. The Now! — A panic scene occurred in the play theater, caused by a city of the most excited people. Were killed seriously injured. The performance was interrupted and shortly locked, when some persons shouted by the whole audience instantly. The mass of people in the "pit," to rush out, met a crushing and fearful pouncing of the gallery, and the fearful and fatal shrieks of agony. No one dared to help, could not then be do-were aped to by the officers and struggling by the police to hold back.

The crazed crowd was driven down the stairs, trampmard and over the weaker ones, until the rebel was finally cleared, unless he had on the stars leading them, and only gave evidence that life had been lost.

THE FIRE BRIGADE TRIES OUT.

The first alarm being rung, the whole quickly went to the rescue and with the dead and dying in the panic which effected, ran in their way and succeeded in forcing their way through the street, but the mass was so great, they were easily interfered with in
